Clio Steel: a car for the 'techies'!

- Generously equipped with modern technologies
- Distinctive details, inside and out
- Production of the limited-edition Clio Steel is restricted to 2,500 cars (available in France only)

Based on the model's Intens equipment level, the new limited-edition Clio Steel places the emphasis on technology. Features range from automatic climate control, extra-tinted rear glass and Full LED head lights to rain and light sensors, while its 'high-tech' specification is boosted by the City Pack Plus which adds front parking sensors and a reversing camera. The list continues with R-Link Evolution, the Comfort Pack and the fitment of specific diamond-cut black Optemic 17-inch wheels.

Exterior and interior styling details emphasise Clio's sensuous lines and distinctive touches point to this limited-edition version's 'techie' appeal, including 'Steel' graphics – which recall the Renault TreZor concept car – on the door mirror housings, side protective mouldings and wheels.

Inside, this exclusive embellishment is also visible on the air vents, steering wheel and central front arm rest. Meanwhile, the mixed black-and-grey simile-leather/velour upholstery and carpet mats are further reminders that this is no run-of-the-mill Clio.

Clio Steel is available in a choice of five body colours (Glacier White, Platine Grey, Etoilé black, Titanium Grey and Pearlescent White) and this elegantly appointed limited-edition version is on display at Renault's French dealerships during the network's special September promotional weekend (September 14-18).

Prices for Clio Steel start from €20,350.
